WHO'S TO START THE INQUIRY?

Mayor Says He Can't Say Yet and Then Requests That he Not be Quoted at All.

COMMITTEE IS SUGGESTED

Non-Partisan Organization is Believed to be Proper Course to Pursue.

Mayor Black today, after stating that he could not state just when the investigation of the incidents leading up to and during the fire of last Sunday morning to determine where the blame lay, requested that anything which passed between him and the newspaper reporter not be published.

Since Mayor Black said nothing that would "incriminate" himself, the request could hardly be granted because the questions were put to him
so as to get answers as a matter of news. Since the mayor is at the head of the city administration, it is the natural belief of most people
that if any investigation by the city council to place the blame for the failure to stop the fire is started,
that the mayor would be the one to take the initiative.

It was suggested today that the investigation be conducted by a non-partisan committee of citizens and taxpayers who are directly interested and do not care to see a recurrence
of the calamity of last Sunday morning.

On the other hand it is also suggested that the investigation might be conducted by the city council in conjunction with the non-partisan committee. In either instance, it is believed by many people, the inquiry would be thorough and result in placing the blame for the fire loss.

Also there would be no "whitewash-
ing," it is declared on all sides.

The belief is growing that a non-partisan investigation would be the proper means of determining just what caused the series of blunders
last Sunday morning. There are said to be a number of Democrats who look with favor on such a method
to throw some light on the situation.

There is no doubt but that there is a great demand for an inquiry of some sort. One business man stated this morning that the city should most certainly guard against a repetition of the disaster of last Sunday
morning.

"Suppose," he said, "that a fire should break out in the block in which our store is located. If the same policy were followed as was used last Sunday morning, the whole block, and possibly the whole business part of the city, would be destroyed. The city can not afford to take much precaution in case of fire. We want to know whether we have at the plant men who can be depended on in cases of emergency."

This seems to be the sentiment generally. But just how the inquiry will be started seems to be an open question. When questioned today, Mayor Black stated that he could not say when the investigation would be started until he had consulted with others and then requested that he

not be quoted.

Many people have been trying to figure out how Mayor Black expected
the hose wagon and fire engine to be hauled to a fire at the same time with one
the water works that the fire engine
would be used to fight fires and did not transmit it to the assistant chief of the fire department. At least, if he did, the assistant chief did not act
on them.

If the dependence were placed on the fire engine, it would be necessary
to take either the hose wagon or fire engine first and then return for the other.

DECLARES HUNGER CAUSED ROBBERY

Young Hollander is fined Ten Dollars For Stealing Bicycle at Knightstown Recently.

THE COURT IS VERY LENIENT

Hunger drove a stranger in a strange land to commit theft, according to evidence produced in circuit court Thursday before Judge Jackson, in the hearing of the charges against Andrew Reichard, a native of Holland, who has been in this county four months, says the Newcastle Times. He was arrested at Knightstown charged with stealing and selling a wheel which belonged to a young man named Fox-worthy. This young man explained to the court that he was hungry and in order to get something to eat he took the wheel. He said he was only 20 years of age and his appearance
bore out the assertion.

The court dealt leniently with the young man and imposed only a fine of $10. Reichard said that he had hunted for work but had not found
it. Upon the completion of the time he will spend in jail he will be given employment.

WHO GETS CONTRACT IS OPEN QUESTION

Lack of Funds to Build Spiceland Academy Building Causes Indefinite Postponement.

BIDDERS' CHECKS RETURNED

The question of the letting of the contract for the new academy building at Spiceland has taken a new turn and from the present outlook it will not be awarded to Samuel Foust of Newcastle. When the bids were turned in it was ascertained that Foust's bid was the lowest and it was generally conceded that the contract would go to him. Although Foust's bid was the lowest, it was more than the amount of money that had been raised. The committee at once began making preparations to secure subscriptions for the desired
amount and while this was being done Frank Bundy, one of the bidders
on the contract, donated a considerable sum of money. When Mr. Foust learned of this he subscribed $250.
Now all of the bidders' checks have been returned to them and it is not known who will get the contract.

Up to the present date the remaining required amount of money has not been subscribed. A number of the Spiceland women are helping raise the money by markets, bazaars
and the like.

CHANCE TO REPLY WATSON DEMAND

Former Congressman is Released by Senate Committee After Being Held Sixteen Days.

SENDS LETTERS TO PROBERS

It's up to Them To Take Some Action on His Requests. Wants Fair Play, That All.

Washington dispatches state that sensational incidents developed fast
in the Senate lobby hunt yesterday,
but of much great significance than any of them was the committee's release of former Representative James E. Watson, of Indiana, from the subpoena which has been holding him in Washington for more than two weeks. The charges of Mulhall against Watson were the most sensational of all those involving men who had served in Congress. A couple of days ago, when Watson
had prepared to ask the United States District Attorney to indict Mulhall on the ground of perjury,
the witness voluntarily retracted his statement that Watson had received compensation from the Manufacturers' Association while a member of Congress for the purpose of getting into the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill the provision for a Tariff Commission.

It was primarily to get Watson
on the stand in connection with this alleged questionable employment that he was one of the first men to be subpoenaed by the committee.

Watson has been itching to get on the stand, but after the Mulhall fiasco Tuesday, when the star witness made his public retraction, the committee
began to lose its interest in the In-dianian, and today sent him word
that it would not require his attention as a witness any longer. Instead of this reason gratifying Watson it aroused his ire, and he wrote
a letter to Chairman Overman stating that he preferred not to accept the release from his subpoena, but would avail himself of the first opportunity given him by the committee to take the witness stand and give testimony which he desired to go into the Record to offset statements
made by Mulhall.

This evening Mr. Watson sent the following to Senator Overman:

"My Dear Senator: I beg leave to acknowledge the receipt of your esteemed favor, in which you notify me that 'After full consideration it has been decided to release you from your subpoena and from further attendance before the committee,' and in which you further state that, if I so desire, I may have the privilege of making any statements to the committee, by voluntarily appearing,
'at such time as may best suit your convenience.'"

"Permit me to say, in reply, that I believe I have been in Washington 16 days waiting for an opportunity to be called to testify before your committee, and that it will best suit my convenience to appear at once and answer the statements set forth in regard to me in Mulhall's letters and also, to respond to such questions as
the committee may see fit to ask touching the entire correspondence
having reference to myself.

"My release by the committee
drives me to one of two inevitable
conclusions: First, that Mulhall's uncontradicted evidence is of such a character that no substantial charge against me can be based upon it; or, second, that it is deemed advisable in certain quarters to have his evidence go before the country
uncontradicted, and in either event,
in justice to myself, not knowing the committee's purpose, I shall insist on

LETTERS ABOUT RECENT STATUTE

Farmers Get Synopsis of Law Regarding the Disposal of Animal Carcass.

MUST PROCURE A LICENSE

May Bury Dead Animals on Their Own Farm if Certain Regulations Are Regarded.

Letters enclosing a synopsis of the law passed by the recent legislature providing for the disposal of bodies of dead animals have been received by a number of farmers in Rush county. The synopsis follows:

Sections one, two and three provide for the manner of procuring a license permitting persons to engage in the business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals.

Section four provides that anyone
may bury or burn his dead stock upon his own premises, provided it is buried to a depth of at least four feet, and is covered with quicklime
before burying. In case such stock is burned it must be burned in a place so arranged that the odors will not interfere with or be obnoxious to the surrounding neighborhood.

Section five, six, seven and eight
set forth the manner of obtaining a license and refer to the duties of the State Veterinarian.

Section nine provides that no persons shall engage in the business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals without first obtaining a license
to do so.

Section ten provides for a special wagon-bed or tank in which the bodies of dead hogs and hogs suffering
from disease may be hauled by licensed persons.

Section eleven provides that any person who shall obtain from any other person by purchase or otherwise, the body of any animal for the purpose of obtaining the hide, skin
or grease from such dead animal, or for the purpose of disposing of the carcass of such dead animal in any way whatsoever, shall be deemed to have engaged in the business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals,
and shall be subject to all the provisions and penalties of the law.

Section twelve provides a penalty of not less than $25 nor more than $100, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for a period
of not less than one day nor more than thirty days, for the violation of any of the provisions of the law.

No person other than a licensed person has the right to haul upon any public highway the body of any hog which has died from disease nor any live hog while suffering from any disease.

"SOME" CHICKEN.

Shelbyville Democrat: When Mrs.
Adrian Linville, of Gwynneville, opened a caw of a young chicken, this morning, which her husband had bought for dinner, she thought she had for sure "some" chicken, as out from the caw dropped a gold nugget, larger than a pea. Mr. Linville bought the chicken of Ben Keaton,
paying thirty-two cents for the fowl.
The piece of gold is worth at least two dollars, and Mr. Linville is thinking of buying all Mr. Keaton's chickens, as an investment.

VALUABLE MARE DIES.

Jasper Siler, a well known Rush
county farmer, lost a valuable mare
on Tuesday while assisting in threshing work at the farm of Mr. and Mrs.
John Callaway, near the Knightstown
Home. The animal was worth $350.
Insurance to the amount of $200 was carried by Mr. Siler on the mare.

FOR SAFE TRAIN HANDLING

C. H. & D. Has Installed Many Miles
of Block Signal System.

During the year just closed the Baltimore & Ohio-Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton system installed considerable machinery for the safety of train handling. On the Western section of the Chicago main line automatic block signals were installed
between McCool's and LaPaz, a distance of forty-five miles. These signals will be put in operation this present week. On the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton end of the line
forty-eight miles of automatic signals are being installed between Indianapolis and Glenwood. On the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern automatic block signals are being installed between North Vernon and Milan, Ind., thirty miles, and between Nebo and Cochran, Ind., six miles, similar equipment is being installed.

NATIVES THINK WOMAN IS INSANE

Wanders Along Road Between Mays
and Raleigh Exciting Suspicion of People.

SHE ACTS IN STRANGE MANNER

What is believed to have been an insane woman was seen along the road between Mays and Raleigh late yesterday afternoon. The woman acted strangely and greatly excited the residents of that portion of the county. She was again seen this morning near Raleigh. The woman
so far has not molested anyone and the people there are at a loss to know who she is and where she came from. The supposition is that she escaped from the Richmond asylum,
but as far as the authorities here
have received no word to be on the lookout for any insane person.

The woman was first noticed near the home of Fred Bell. She stopped in front of the house and her actions
and talk led them to believe that she was insane. So far no one has offered to stop and question her.

IS BURIED NEAR CARTHAGE

Body of Wilson H. White Taken to His Former Home.

The death of Wilson H. White occurred Tuesday at his home in Indianapolis, says the Carthage Citizen.
The body was brought here Thursday, and funeral services were held at the home of his brother, Lilburn White, west of Carthage, at two o'clock in the afternoon, conducted by the Rev. J. Edgar Williams, pastor of the Friends church, who was assisted by the Rev. Miss Zona Williams of Charlottesville. Those who survive are five children, and four brothers, Charlie E., Lilburn, Morris and Al White.

HOW WEALTH ACCUMULATES

Muncie Press: When Colonel
Bryan was nominated for president in 1896, he was drawing a salary of thirty dollars a week as an editorial
writer for the present Senator Hitchcock of Omaha. Now he finds it impossible to live on the secretary of state's salary of twelve thousand dollars a year, coupled with the income from something like a half million dollars worth of property.
That's certainly progressive.

SIDEWALKS ARE BEING REPAIRED

City Finally Begins to Replace Cement Where it Was Removed to Install Meters..

THE BILLS CALL FOR $17.50

Several Owners of Business Rooms
Refuse to Pay and Renters
Follow Suit.

The city today began to repair the places in the sidewalk which were torn up for the installation of water meters. Some of the meters have been in two months, but the blocks
of cement which were taken up were never replaced.

The placing of meters at some business houses has caused a storm of protest. It was the understanding when meters were first talked of
that they would cost about twelve dollars, but some business men have received a bill for $17.50. It is explained that this includes the meter
box. They are to protect the meter.
It is understood the city will not put
the meters in cellars unless the resident will guarantee to replace the meter if it freezes. Few will do this,
with the result that they have to buy a box.

The question as to who should pay for the meters has also caused some misunderstanding. Of course, the city could get recourse only on the property owner to collect for the meter y charging it up with the owners taxes, so the city has sent the bill to the owners of many business
rooms where meters have been installed.

The natural thing for the owner
of the business block to do would be to refuse to pay for the meter because it is not a necessary equipment and in most cases the owners do this. In some instances the renters of the room have refused to pay for the meters also. The city has replied that the water will be turned off if the water meter is not paid for.
Some of the meters have not been paid for and it seems to be the city's next move.

There is one instance of where a business man has to pay for a water meter and box when he uses very little city water. His meter reading for the first seven weeks showed that

The Prevailing Note in Retailing

In a recent newspaper advertisement we saw the following sentence:

"Not only is our merchandise of the very highest quality
but our store service is studiously polite, efficient and obliging."

This kind of retailing is what the public has a right to expect and does expect. It is the kind of retailing that the progressive merchants are offering to their patrons and telling them about in the columns
of the best newspapers.

When one goes shopping in these days of progressive retailing it is best to start out fortified with all of the available information it is possible
to secure.

A careful reading of our advertising columns from day to day, not only saves much time
and worry, but shows one
where one may secure satisfactory service and attention.

ENCOURAGEMENT ALL THAT IS NECESSARY

Given This, President Will Mediate In Mexico.

Washington, July 25.—That some effort will be made by the Wilson administration to bring about mediation between the warring factions in Mexico is all but certain now. The president and his advisers are inclined to put some such plan into operation if they receive the slightest encouragement from leaders in the southern republic.

Developments here indicate that the leaders of the constitutional rebellion in Mexico will not consider for a minute the suggestion of mediation at this time, and while the attitude of the Huerta government is in doubt, the impression is growing that it, too, will look with disfavor on any plan of this character.

While the details of the administration's scheme are still to be worked out, the idea that finds greatest favor at present is for the appointment of a commission by the president to go to Mexico and confer with the various factions with a view to effecting a common understanding and a truce for the holding of a special election. In this connection it was suggested that the president might send John E. Lamb of Indiana, who is supposed to have been picked for ambassador to Mexico, on this mission.

Workings of the Cat and Mouse Law.

London, July 25.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant leader who was returned to prison last Monday after she had been arrested at the weekly meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union, has again been released from jail. She was so weak from her latest hunger strike that she had to be taken from the jail to a nursing home in an ambulance.

Steps In Machine's Path.

South Bend, Ind., July 25.—Miss Augusta Meyers, sixty years of age, was instantly killed when she was struck by an auto owned and driven by Van Bardeen, a saloon keeper. It was said that in attempting to avoid being struck by a buggy, Miss Meyers stepped squarely into the path of the auto. The driver attempted to turn out, but too late.

MAY BE HEARD IN MILITARY COURT

New Point Raised In the Case of Sergeant Ball.

PASSED UP BY POLICE COURT

When the Sergeant Who Shot a Private of Indiana National Guard Who Attempted to Escape From Provost Guard Custody Appeared in Police Court at Indianapolis, He Was Turned Over to the Military Authorities.

Indianapolis, July 25.—Edwin Ball, sergeant of Indianapolis Company 11, Indiana national guard, who shot Walter Dowell, private of Madison Company F, when the latter attempted to escape custody on a charge of smuggling whisky into the camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, was turned over to the military authorities by Judge James A. Collins in police court. Sergeant Ball surrendered to the police, who held him in the city jail until Judge Collins decided the question of jurisdiction, when Ball was taken, under guard, to the national guardsmen's camp. Whether or not he will be tried by court-martial for shooting Dowell has not been determined.

Governor Ralston said that he had not looked into the law surrounding the evidence that has come to light with reference to the shooting of Dowell. He said that he would immediately investigate the situation, however, and in due time would decide as to what his future action might be. He attempted several times to get into communication with hospital authorities in charge of Dowell to learn his condition.

Dowell has a fighting chance for life, with a bullet hole through his body. He is at the St. Vincent's hospital.

The shooting followed an organized effort of Brigadier General McKee, in charge of the annual maneuvers at Fort Benjamin Harrison, to keep liquor out of the camp.

WOULD PUT A STOP TO IT

Effort to Suppress Gaming at Terre Haute Race Track.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 25.—A storm has arisen against betting and beer selling at the local race track.

Dr. Paul C. Curnick, pastor of the First Methodist church, sent a telegram to Governor Ralston saying the laws are openly violated. He alleges pools are sold, that there is a hierarchy of wheel, that liquor is sold openly and asks the governor: "Won't you as chief executive officer of the great state of Indiana, call on Sheriff Shea to put a stop to this flagrant and brazen violation of the statutes of the commonwealth?"

Followed Old Custom.

Some of the local newspapers denounce conditions at the track. The president of the board of safety says Chief Fasig was instructed to stop the gambling. For a quarter of a century betting on races, wheels and games of chance and two big bars under the grandstand, the bars having no license, have been taken as a matter of course in Terre Haute, as are the Sunday theaters and gambling in back rooms of cigar stores.

The betting privilege, the wheels and the bars bring much money to the association. The latter always included in its membership the best men in the city's business and social life. One resident who a privilege holder said "could give a gambler cards and spades in making and enforcing a contract for privileges," is a public advocate of the city beautiful. With this class of men at the head of the association, the authorities and the public generally hesitated to raise objection to conditions at the race meetings. Therefore the present unexpected outbreak is inexplicable.

Chief of Police Fasig declines to talk about the order from the board of safety to stop the gambling.

The Governor Means Business.

Indianapolis, July 25.—"I shall insist on the law being enforced both against the illegal sale of liquor and gambling," said Governor Ralston when told that law violations had continued at the Terre Haute race track in spite of his orders to the sheriff to do his duty. The governor said that he would have further communication with Terre Haute authorities, and indicated that he would compel them to enforce the law.

Medical Examiners Reappointed.

Indianapolis, July 25.—Governor Ralston, disregarding protests made by the Indiana State Medical association, has reappointed Dr. J. F. Spannhurst of Indianapolis and Dr. S. G. Smelser of Richmond, as members of the state board of medical registration and examination.

Noblesville, Ind., July 25.—Nine hundred bottles of beer and whisky were dumped into Stony creek. The liquor was of stock confiscated in "blind tiger" raids.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of Those Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine—double strength—has been discovered that is guaranteed to remove these home-ly spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your drug-gist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

RELIEF AT LAST
REACHES JUAREZ

Rebels' Designs on Border
Town Circumvented.

CHIHUAHUA ALSO RELIEVED

With the Reopening of Railway Communication With Long Beleguired Capital of Northern State, Famine-Stricken People There Will Be Restored to a Measure of Comfort That Long Has Been Denied Them.

El Paso, July 25.—Federal troops from Chihuahua have just arrived at Juarez, removing all possibility of a successful attack upon the town by rebels, and with the railroad opened, relief trains were sent to Chihuahua with food and supplies for the famine-stricken state capital. Not only will the reinforcements make Juarez impregnable, but it is announced that Juarez will be used as a base for operating against the rebels and that Ortega and his 700 men at Guadalupe, 40 miles west of Juarez, are to be attacked at once. The troops arrived in Juarez in four trains under command of Alberto Terrazas, former governor of Chihuahua, who has six machine guns with him. When asked what he thought of the decision of President Wilson to prohibit exportation of arms or ammunition to any faction in Mexico, he said: "We want arms now to put down the bandits. The rebels are whipped. If the United States hampers us in getting arms and ammunition to use against the bandits we will be unable to give the proper protection to foreigners and our own people."

Governor Mercado telegraphed the federal military authorities in Juarez that there are no rebels nor bandits in the Madera district, but that he would send out a force of men to protect Americans at Madera. His telegram said that Pascual Orozco had arrived from Torreon with 2,200 men. Some of Orozco's men came in with Terrazas to Juarez. Terrazas's own company of 300 volunteers is called "The Millionaire Military company," in Chihuahua, as it is composed of a number of wealthy young men from the state capital. Terrazas will buy $100,000 worth of supplies in El Paso to be sent to Chihuahua for the business houses, which have completely exhausted their supply of food and clothing during the siege.

Secretary of War Garrison, Chief of Staff Leonard Wood and Quartermaster General Ayleshire, after looking over the border patrol camps near El Paso, left for Fort Huachuca and other Arizona border points. Both inquired much about Mexican conditions but declined to make any expression upon Mexico or Mexican affairs. General Wood declared this country would need 600,000 soldiers to go into a war with a first-rate power. "Yet we have only 150,000 now, including regulars and militia," he said.

IT MAKES MULHALL TIRED

To Hear Those Continual Denials of His Tales of the Lobby.

Washington, July 25.—Colonel Martin M. Mulhall has met with another impressive denial, this time from Senator Cummins, a member of the lobby committee. In a letter written by Mulhall to Fred C. Schwedman, secretary of the N. A. M., on May 25, 1909, Mulhall said he (Mulhall) and Cummins discussed a certain matter in Senator Dilliver's room.

Senator Cummins questioned Mulhall closely in regard to the location of Senator Dilliver's room, then made a short statement. He said:

"In the first place, strange as it may appear, I have no recollection of ever seeing Colonel Mulhall until he appeared before this committee."

"I am getting tired," shouted Mulhall, "of denials that are made here."

"It does not make any difference to me," broke in Senator Cummins, "whether you are tired or not; if you do not tell the truth, I am going to deny any misstatements you make."

Chairman Overman announces that the committee has released from subpoena former Representative James E. Watson of Indiana, frequently mentioned in Mulhall's testimony. Watson, if he desires, will be heard by the committee later.

Metal Coating For Automobiles.

The finishing of the exterior of automobile bodies with a metallic coating instead of with paint or varnish is receiving considerable attention in German automobile circles. The method of metallizing the surface with a hard, smooth and nonrusting coating is by means of a hot blast. The speed with which the fine particles of metal leave the spraying nozzle is about 5,000 feet per second. When the spray strikes the surface to be coated the particles are not yet fully solidified, but, remaining plastic for a few moments, are welded into a perfectly homogeneous and adhering film under the high pressure of the stream. In the development of the process it is quite possible that coloring matter can be mixed in to obtain any tint desired.

Chicago, July 25.—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of public schools in Chicago since 1909, at an annual salary of $10,000, announces her resignation. Lack of harmony between Mrs. Young and the board of education is said to be the cause. The board has changed complexion politically with a change of administration since Mrs. Young's appointment, and she has found it difficult to carry out her plans.

GIVEN A CHANCE TO REACH SAFETY ZONE

Case of Beleguired Americans
Not Hopeless.

Washington, July 25.—Regarding the safety of the Americans and their families who have been virtually under siege at Madera, Mexico, reassuring dispatches have been received by the state department. This news indicates that the Americans are now on their way from Madera to the border. The officials of the Madera Lumber company, of which the men in the party are employees, have informed the department that they believe there is no condition warranting great alarm concerning the Americans. Railroad officials have placed at their disposal a number of box cars and a locomotive, besides a power handcar. The railroad from Madera is under operation for several miles to the north, leaving only forty miles to be covered by the refugees on foot or by other conveyance on their way to the border. Besides the fifteen Americans there are a number of Mexican employees of the company at Madera who are willing to help the Americans out of their danger. General Villa, the constitutional leader, is willing to assist in the rescue of the Americans, it is said.

The rumor that rebels have taken Torreon is declared false by informants of the department of state. Efforts are being made to prevent the destruction of the international railway line from Torreon to Monclova. Monclova is still held by the federals.

NEW CURE MAKES
SMALLPOX MILD

It Becomes Harmless as Chickenpox, it Is Declared.

PREVENTS PUS INFECTION.

Sir Almroth E. Wright, the Great English Physician, Discovers New Method of Treatment—Anti-streptococcal and Anti-staphylococcal Vaccines Are Injected In Early Stages of Disease.

Sir Almroth E. Wright, the English physician who added to the brilliant medical achievements of recent years the discovery of the value of anti-typhoid vaccination, has made known another discovery of great importance in connection with the treatment of smallpox. By this improvement in treatment the disease, it is announced, becomes almost as harmless as chickenpox.

The details of the treatment are made known in this letter, written by a London physician to the editor of American Medicine:

"I am permitted by Sir Almroth E. Wright to repeat some facts he gave me in a recent conversation. He has recently received information to the effect that the injection of anti-streptococcal and anti-staphylococcal vaccines in the early stages of smallpox prevents the later pus infections, which are the real causes of death. Indeed, the cases thus treated are so mild, even in those who have not acquired the slightest immunity against smallpox by Jennerian vaccine, that it is scarcely recognized as smallpox. Freed of its coincident pus infections, it might almost be called as benign a disease as chickenpox, so slight is the suffering and so few are the deaths.

Opposition to Vaccination.

"He says that if this means of treatment had been known in Jenner's time the opposition to vaccination on the part of the medical profession might have prevented the adoption of the system of immunizing by a modified smallpox or vaccine. Smallpox might now be considered a curable disease, with no after effects and possible of complete elimination. Moreover, if an infant is first given a proper dose of the two vaccines, anti-streptococcal and anti-staphylococcal, and then given a Jennerian vaccination the latter is entirely free of any signs of inflammation and gives no discomfort, or at least a negligible one.

"Finally, if calves are first immunized in this way against the staphylococcus pyogenes aureus and the streptococcus they do not develop any signs of inflammation around the vaccinia vesicles, which, I understand, will dry up in the serous stage and not go to the production of pus. Such lymph is practically free of pus organisms.

"Perhaps all these facts have been reported in America, but in case they have not I hasten to send the news in order that the matter may be tried out and, if proved correct, be put to practical use at once.

Causes Skin Reaction.

"It has long been known that vaccine which has been heated will cause a skin reaction, but the experiments of Von Pirquet and others now show that a sterile Jennerian vaccine will cause a skin reaction only in those already immunized to vaccinia, and this reaction may be mistaken for a successful vaccination or 'take.'

"It has also been found that if an unprotected person is vaccinated every day for eight days the several inoculations are progressively more rapid in developing and all mature at the same time. The significance of this phenomenon is not quite clear unless it indicates a negative phase during which the system opposes less and less resistance to the invading organism of vaccinia.

"As a side thought it was suggested that when calves are first immunized against pus, the vaccinia subsequently given to them produces no discoverable suffering and so little inconvenience that the anti-vivisection cranks have positively nothing to complain of."

TROUT EATS FROM HAND.

Sunbeam, Pet of the Hatchery, Fond of Being Stroked.

Sunbeam, the fine pet speckled trout in the fish hatchery at Estes Park, Colo., has just recovered from an indisposition caused by stomach trouble or rheumatism, and is again able to take his place as the only pet trout in captivity.

The fish, now a three-year-old and about eleven inches long, is as good an example of gentle and loving trout-hood as it is possible to find. Fed from the hand from the time he was hatched, he feels insulted now unless his food is given to him in that way.

He is very fond of being stroked and petted and will swim around and rub himself against a person's hand whenever a chance is given him.

Never Blow in a Mule's Ear.

Barney Benson of Stoneham, Colo., had heard that the way to cure a mule of balking was to blow in its ear. He tried the remedy and is now at the hospital in Sterling, a nearby town, with both jaws broken and several teeth missing. The mule did not take kindly to the "gentle zephyrs" playing in its ears, and as a rebuke landed both heels on Benson's jaw.

Far Fetched Excuses.

The editor of the Daily Jacksonian poses as a lawyer. Yet it is stated in the Jacksonian that some men deplore the publicity that has been given the causes for the fire loss because the fire insurance companies are willing to find an excuse to raise the rates "and even now are fighting to see what can be done along this line, and if suit is brought against the city it is against the entire city and the taxpayer foots the bill."

The editor of the Jacksonian, if he is any lawyer at all, must know that neither the insurance companies or the people who suffered a property loss can get recourse from the city under the laws of Indiana. The supreme court has held, according to a number of Rushville lawyers who are well acquainted with the best practices, that a city or county is not liable for the negligence of its employees.

As to the other charge that the insurance companies are looking for an opportunity to raise the rates, it is as far-fetched, if not more so, than the first. Insurance companies conduct their own investigations and do not take the report or word of any person or newspaper, according to their agents. They investigate every fire, no matter what the cause may be. If not a word in regard to the cause of the Sunday morning fire had been mentioned in the newspapers, an insurance investigator would not have been in Rushville long until he would have heard the story of no fire pressure. He would have been told, as every person present knew, that the fire could have been extinguished with small loss had the fire pressure been on.

The Jacksonian says: "Mr. Brown said that he had been in the municipal plant for seventeen years and had pumped water for almost every fire in that time and on several occasions the reservoir had been dry for various reasons, but never had a fire and dry reservoir occurred at the same time. This was vouched for by other employees and people who live near the plant."

That may all be very true, but that was not the status of the case. According to the records of the plant—and the Jacksonian surely will not attempt to refute them—there was seven and a half feet of water in the reservoir at midnight Saturday, two hours and a half before the fire, and that the water in the reservoir increased two and a half feet during the next twelve hours, which was during the fire. So the reservoir was not dry.

We are assured absolutely that fire pressure can be maintained with seven and a half feet of water in the reservoir. Then why was there not fire pressure during the fire? Supt. Brown says because Mayor Black had said the engines would take care of all fires and that he didn't know whether it was a woodshed or a business block burning down. Engineer Joyce first said he couldn't get better than twenty pounds pressure because the pumps would not lift the water and later said he tried to prime the pump and couldn't. It is apparent notes were not compared before statements were made.

There is no political thunder about the incident Democrats as well as Republicans are demanding an investigation. Councilman Ed Kelley, a Democrat, says the blame should be placed where it belongs. Mayor Black says he welcomes an investigation. Councilman Ormes says he favors an inquiry.

So there seems to be nothing to do but investigate. And in this connection it is being suggested on all sides that the investigation be made either by a non-partisan citizens' committee consisting of the council and citizens. This seems to be a very wise suggestion and people who favor such an inquiry should so inform the city council.

A Public Auditorium.

The time was never more appropriate for agitation in favor of a public auditorium in the center of the city. The time is ripe since the Masonic block is to be rebuilt. It is advocated by many people that a third story could be put on the new Masonic temple to provide a place for public meetings, entertainments, shows or lectures. Other people advocate that an addition might be built on the back end of the new building for the same purpose.

It is said that the stockholders of the Phoenix Masonic Temple association, considered the advisability of arranging for a public meeting place when the Masonic building was first erected. There was some strong sentiment at that time in favor of such an arrangement, but the belief by some that it would not be a paying investment caused the stockholders to vote down the proposition.

There is no doubt but that there is need for such a thing in Rushville. Most all of the small places in Rush-county have their "town halls." It is a meeting place for the whole community. There is an urgent need for such a place in every community. The coliseum is too far from the center of the city to be of advantage for all classes of gatherings. It is impractical for winter use because there is no floor and there is no means of heating it. The coliseum serves the purpose well for which it was built—the home of the chautauqua, but for all other purposes it is very disadvantageous.

Whenever there is any amusement enterprise of any sort in Rushville during the cold months of the year, a church has to be pressed into service. The churches are not adapted for such enterprises. Although they serve the purpose in some instances, there are others in which they do not. Many classes of amusements are kept away from the want of a place in which to hold forth. Rushville people spend money in attending shows in Indianapolis and in doing so they leave money in Indianapolis. They might as well be amused in Rushville.

Since the Masonic block will likely be rebuilt and there is need of such a movement in Rushville, it would not be amiss for people who favor the proposed enterprise to advance the argument to stockholders in the Phoenix Maonic Temple association.

If the city of Rushville does start a school for water works superintendents, as it has been intimated the city has already done, why not elect A. T. Mahin president?

Editorialettes

There are more rats than human beings in the United States, according to a bulletin sent out by the government health service at Washington. It looks like it were about time for the human beings to move out.

Rushville is being held up as a horrible example by the neighboring newspapers. Serves us right.

Something to Worry About.

A shingle mill in Main uses two thousand cords of paper birch each year in the manufacture of tooth-picks.

Someone should explain the difference between a woodshed fire and a business block fire to the superintendent of the water and light plant during a spare moment.

Something More to Worry About.

We find the state entomologist believes the humidity is conducive to fleas. Well, at last we've got something on old humidity. Tickled to death.

Some fussy people call on the summer hotels to furnish square meals when they should be satisfied with feasting on the scenery.

While men are not expected to do much cooking nowadays, it does seem as if they could get up a pitcher of lemonade without calling on their wives.

It's a gay world. We talk of the new postoffice building and new other sorts of things, but how do we know but that they are going to burn down?

As you were about to answer, little one, we don't. You ask if there is going to be any investigation. How do we know? Mayor Black says he would welcome one, but lots of times you can't get things by welcoming them. We never got our five-sixty of a Saturday night that way. You generally have to go after it.

Some scribe has written it that Mr. Bryan seems to think his job is a vocation with the first "o" changed to "a." We're not venturing any criticism on Mr. Bryan's acts for the first time in our short, but eventful life. We envy him. The fellow who can take six weeks' vacation in the middle of a hard summer and get away with it is to be envied.

The Tipton Times says the girls of its town don't know how to turkey-trot. After mature thought, The Times would never have libeled the town that way. We have some squeaky porch swings in Rushville, too, but we seldom mention it.

POTATO CULTURE.

"Potato production in Indiana," says J. G. Boyle of the horticultural department, Purdue university, "is carried on principally from the standpoint of home consumption. Certain small sections are adapted to this crop, but the state as a whole is not adapted to the growing of this vegetable on a field scale. All farmers are interested in growing a sufficient amount for home use and possibly in some instances a small quantity to supply the local demand. The important considerations in growing potatoes are the securing of good seed, proper soil condition, cultivation and insect and disease control.

"For the early crop Bevee and Irish Cobbler are desirable, and for the later or main crop New Late White, Rural New Yorker, Carman No. 3, and Sir Walter Raleigh are well adapted. Smooth, medium sized, well formed tubers, free from scab, should be selected for planting. These are cut usually into two or three pieces with two or three eyes to each piece. One piece is planted in each hill four inches below the surface and in rows three feet apart, with the hills 18 to 20 inches apart in a row. Just before cutting, treat the seed for scab by soaking the tubers in a formalin solution (1 lb. 40 per cent formalin to 30 gals. water) for two hours. This will destroy all the scab present on the tubers.

"The best soil for potatoes when quality and yield are considered is a rather rich retentive sandy loam that does not pack easily. Other types of soil may be used with fair success for producing a home supply if the above soil is not available.

"Good cultivation is a very important item if large yields are to be secured. On the average, from 5 to 7 cultivations have proven very satisfactory, these being given every seven to ten days until the vines over the ground. Level cultivation should be practiced, the same given by a cultivator having several small teeth. Mulching with straw has proven successful in some cases but as a rule is not generally a desirable practice.

"The potato beetle is the most serious insect pest of this crop and is controlled by arsenate of lead—2 pounds to 50 gallons of water at the hatching period. The blight is controlled by applying Bordeaux mixture (4-4-50 from two to four times throughout the season."

THE TUBERCULOSIS TOPIC.

Beware the careless consumptive. His spit is poisonous.

Fight shy of patent medicines, the promoter of which declare they have a sure cure for tuberculosis.

Look askance at the "improvement" following the first bottle in "patent medicine" treatment. Such stuff usually contains stimulants for the purpose of inducing you to buy more.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale declares that of those now living in the United States, 5,000,000 will die of tuberculosis.

The same authority declares that the cost of tuberculosis, including capitalized earning power in $8000 per death.

Which means that this costs the United States $1,100,000,000 and the state of Indiana $32,000,000 each year.

A "stitch in time saves nine" means that a few weeks spent in a tuberculosis sanitarium during the early stages of the disease will result in a longer life.

This county should have a tuberculosis hospital.

More than half of the population of Cuba is found in the rural districts.

To Get Rid of House Ants Keep All Food Articles in Close Containers

Numerous complaints about house ants in iceboxes, kitchens and pantries have recently been received by the office of the state entomologist. These ants from reports received, are of two closely related species, the little red house ant and the little black house ant. Of these the former seems to be the more troublesome, perhaps owing to the fact that it builds its nest in the walls or the floors of buildings while the black ant's nest is most commonly found out of doors under stones or small boards. The life history of these two species is identical and practically the same methods of control hold for each. The life history of the ant, starting with the adult may be briefly summarized as follows: First, the egg laid by the queen ant. The eggs are quite minute and as a rule are laid in masses of varying number. Second is the larval or "grub" stage. The grubs are much like fly "maggots" but differ from these in having a distinct head and well formed mouth parts. Third is the resting or pupal stage. The larvae build tough elliptical silken cases and in these undergo radical transformation, finally emerging as the adults. It is the pupa cases that are so commonly mistaken for the eggs when one stirs up a nest. Finally from the pupa cases the adults emerge. Of these there are three classes, males, females or queens and the workers. The winged males and females are produced during the summer and early fall and soon after emergence take a nuptial flight similar to the honey-bee. After the fertilization of the females and the males die and the females or queens tear off their wings and start new colonies.

The red and black house ants are quite fond of a large variety of food stuff and the first essential in getting rid of ants is to keep all articles of food in tight containers. Absolute cleanliness is essential in combating these pests and grains of sugar or crumbs of bread or other unnoticeable bits of food often form an attraction for the ants. Should these insects become very troublesome, permanent relief can be afforded by locating the nest by watching where the workers go and then injecting several ounces of carbon bisulphide into it, and plugging up the entrance. (CAUTION—Carbon bisulphide forms a very inflammable gas, and fire must not be brought close to it.) This will kill the queen and workers present and the nest will soon die out. However, the nests are often hard to find and this is particularly true of those of the red ant. Where the insects are in an ice box, this should be set off the floor with the legs resting in small pans of oil. Crude or cheap machine oil is good. Care must be taken so that no part of the legs touch the sides of the pan and no part of the box must touch the wall, to afford a bridge. When the ants seem to be scattered promiscuously throughout the kitchen or pantry, sponges soaked in a sweetened solution may be left lying about and whenever the ants have gathered on it the sponge should be dropped into a bucket of boiling water. Persistence in killing these insects in this manner often discourages them and they will turn elsewhere to seek their food.

The ladies of the Catholic church will hold an Exchange tonight and tomorrow night at the Carnival.

OSTEOPATHS WIN PLACE ON BOARD

Dr. Spaunhurst Appointed by Governor After Warm Fight With Other Board Members.

IS CONSIDERED BIG VICTORY

Dr. John F. Spaunhurst of Indianapolis, a well known osteopath, was reappointed yesterday afternoon by Governor Ralston to serve on the State Board of Medical Registration and Examination. The appointment of Dr. Spaunhurst came after a warm fight waged by Dr. Spaunhurst and Dr. S. G. Smelser on the one side and the other four members of the board on the other.

The osteopaths were opposed by the medical men for representation on the board and the appointment of Dr. Spaunhurst by Governor Ralston is looked upon as a big victory for the osteopaths of the state. An effort was made by the other board members to keep the osteopaths from being represented on the board as has been in the last six or seven years.

HER RHETORIC ACCEPTED

Miss Zella O'Hair, Well Known Here, Wins Recognition.

Miss Zella O'Hair, who is spending the summer at Brookville and whose sister, Miss Belle, is now a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller in this city, has received a telegram from her publishers Longman, Green & Co., of New York, announcing that the Howe and O'Hair Rhetoric has been adopted in the high schools of Indiana. The adoption which covers a period of five years was made by the State Board of Education at Indianapolis, after a long period of investigation of the leading rhetorics of the United States. Miss O'Hair and Dr. W. D. Howe, head of the English Department at Indiana University, have recently completed a series of grammars which are now in the hands of their publishers.

GUSHER GAS WELL.

Pritchard & Suits, gas well contractors of Knightstown, finished up a well on the Ezra Hill farm, 1½ miles south of Charlottesville that is a gusher. The drill was sent down 910 feet, penetrating ten feet into Trenton rock, where gas in great quantities was found. It is said the flames shot up to the height of the derrick and roared like a train of cars. The territory south of Charlottesville is said to be the best gas territory in this section of the state.

CHAPTER II.

"I am afraid I have been a long time," he said apologetically, as he closed the door of the carriage, after giving Mrs. Parker Bowman's address to the driver. In the uncertain light of the distant arc-lamp, the girl looked small and appealing. He felt a strong desire to lift her burdens and carry them on his own broad shoulders.

"I've brought some things that I thought might help," he said. "Would you like to put on this coat? It may not be just what you would have selected, but it was the best I could find that would not be recognized. The air is growing chilly."

He shook out the coat and threw it around her.

"Oh, thank you," she murmured gratefully, slipping her arms into the sleeves.

"And this box has some kind of a hat, I hope," he went on. "I ought to have looked, but there really wasn't time." He unknotted the strings and produced a large picture hat with long black plumes. He was relieved to find it black. While he untied the strings, there had been a growing uneasiness lest the hat be one of those wild, queer combinations of color that Cornelia frequently purchased and called "artistic."

The girl received the hat with a grateful relief that was entirely satisfactory to the young man.

"And now," said he, as he pulled out the gloves and laid them gravely in her lap, "we're invited out to dinner."

"Invited out to dinner!" gasped the girl.

"Yes. It's rather a providential thing to have happened, I think. The telephone was ringing as I opened the door, and Mrs. Parker Bowman, to whose house I was invited, was asking for my sister to fill the place of an absent guest. My sister is away, and I tried to beg off. I told her I had accidentally met—I hope you will pardon me—I called you a friend."

"Oh!" she said. "That was kind of you."

"I said you were a stranger in town, and as I was your only acquaintance, I felt that I should show you the courtesy of taking you to a hotel, and assisting to get you off on the night train; and I asked her to excuse me, as that would give her an even number. But it seems she had invited some one especially to meet me, and was greatly distressed not to have her full quota of guests, so she sent you a most cordial invitation to come to her at once, promising to take dinner with you some time if you would help her out now. Somehow, she gathered from my talk that you were traveling, had just returned from abroad, and were temporarily separated from your friends. She is also sure that you are musical, and means to ask you to help her out in that way this evening. I told her I was not sure whether you could be give more room for breathing. "I must get away somewhere at once. I cannot trouble you in this way. I have already imposed upon your kindness. With this hat and coat and gloves, I shall be able to manage quite well, and I thank you so much! I will return them to you as soon as possible."

The cab began to go slowly, and Tryon Dunham noticed that another carriage, just ahead of theirs, was stopping before Mrs. Bowman's house. There was no time for halting decision.

"My friend," he said earnestly, "I cannot leave you alone, and I do not see a better way than for you to go in here with me for a little while, till I am free to go with you. No one can follow you here, or suspect that you had gone out to dinner at a stranger's house. Believe me, it is the very safest thing you could do. This is the house. Will you go in with me? If not, I must tell the driver to take us somewhere else."

"But what will she think of me," she said in trepidation, "and how can I do such a thing as to steal into a woman's house to a dinner in this way! Besides, I am not dressed for a formal occasion."

The carriage stopped before the door now, and the driver was getting down from his seat.

"Indeed, she will think nothing about it," Dunham assured her, "except to be glad that she has the right number of guests. Her dinners are delightful affairs usually, and you have nothing to do but talk about impersonal matters for a little while and be entertaining. She was most insistent that you take no thought about the matter of dress. She said it would be perfectly understood that you were traveling, and that the invitation was unexpected. You can say that your trunk has not come, or has gone ahead. Will you come?"

Then the driver opened the carriage door.

In an instant the girl assumed the self-contained manner she had worn when she had first spoken to him. She stepped quietly from the carriage, and only answered in a low voice, "I suppose I'd better, if you wish it."

Dunham paused for a moment to give the driver a direction about carrying the great pasteboard box to his club. This idea had come as a sudden inspiration. He had not thought of the necessity of getting rid of that box before.

"If it becomes necessary, where shall I say you are going this evening?" he asked in a low tone, as they turned to go up the steps. She summoned a faint, flickering smile.

"When people have been traveling abroad and are stopping over in the city, they often go to Washington, do they not?" she asked half shyly.

The door swung open before they could say another word, and the young man remembered that he must introduce his new friend. As there was no further opportunity to ask her about her name, he must trust to luck.

The girl obeyed the motion of the servant and slipped up to the dressing-room as if she were a frequent guest in the house, but it was in some trepidation that Tryon Dunham removed his overcoat and arranged his necktie. He had caught a passing glimpse of the assembled company, and knew that Mr. Bowman was growing impatient for his dinner. His heart almost failed him now that the girl was out of sight. What if she should not prove to be accustomed to society, after all, and should show it? How embarrassing that would be! He had seen her only in a half-light as yet. How had he dared?

But it was too late now, for he was coming from the dressing-room, and Mrs. Bowman was approaching them with outstretched hands, and a welcome in her face.

"My dear Miss Remington, it is so good of you to help me out! I can see by the first glance that it is going to be a privilege to know you. I can't thank you enough for waiving formalities."

"It was very lovely of you to ask me," said the girl, with perfect composure, "a stranger."

"Don't speak of it, dear. Mr. Dunham's friends are not strangers, I assure you. Tryon, didn't you tell her how long we have known each other? I shall feel quite hurt if you have never mentioned me to her. Now, come, for my cook is in the last stages of despair over the dinner. Miss Remington, how do you manage to look so fresh and lovely after a long sea voyage? You must tell me your secret."

The young man looked down at the girl and saw that her dress was in perfect taste for the occasion, and also that she was very young and beautiful. He was watching her with a kind of proprietary pride as she moved forward to be introduced to the other guests, when he saw her sweep one quick glance around the room, and for just an instant hesitate and draw back. Her face grew white; then, with a supreme effort, she controlled her feelings, and went through her part with perfect ease.

When Judge Blackwell was introduced to the girl, he looked at her with what seemed to Dunham to be more than a passing interest; but the keen eyes were almost immediately transferred to his own face, and the young man had no further time to watch his protegee, as dinner was immediately announced.

Miss Remington was seated next to Dunham at the table, with the Judge on her other side. The young man was pleased with the arrangement, and sat furtively studying the delicate tinting of her face, the dainty line of cheek and chin and ear, the sweep of her dark lashes, and the ripple of her brown hair, as he tried to converse easily with her, as an old friend might.

At length the Judge turned to the girl and said:

"Miss Remington, you remind me strongly of a young woman who was in my office this afternoon."

The delicate color flickered out of the girl's face entirely, leaving even her lips white, but she lifted her dark eyes bravely to the kindly blue ones, and with sweet dignity baffled the questioned recognition in his look.

"Yes, you are so much like her that I would think you were—her sister perhaps, if it were not for the name," Judge Blackwell went on. "She was a most interesting and beautiful young lady." The old gentleman bestowed upon the girl a look that was like a benediction. "Excuse me for speaking of it, but her dress was something soft and beautiful, like yours, and seemed to suit her face. I was deeply interested in her, although until this afternoon she was a stranger. She came to me for a small matter of business, and after it was attended to, and before she received the papers, she disappeared! She had removed her hat and gloves, as she was obliged to wait some time for certain matters to be looked up, and these she left behind her. The hat is covered with long, handsome plumes of the color of rich cream in coffee."

Young Dunham glanced down at the cloth of the girl's gown, and was startled to find the same rich creamy-coffee tint in its silky folds; yet she did not show by so much as a flicker of an eyelash that she was passing under the keenest inspection.

"Why should she want to disappear?" The question was asked coolly and with as much interest as a stranger would be likely to show.

"I cannot imagine," said the old man speculatively. "She apparently had health and happiness, if one may judge from her appearance, and she came to me of her own free will on a matter of business. Immediately after her disappearance, two well-dressed men entered my office and inquired for her. One had an intellectual head, but looked hard and cruel; the other was very handsome—and disagreeable. When he could not find the young lady, he laid claim to her hat, but I had it locked away. How could I know that man was her friend or her relative? I intend to keep that hat until the young woman herself claims it. I have not had anything happen that has so upset me in years."

"You don't think any harm has come to her?" questioned the girl.

"I cannot think what harm could, and yet—it is very strange. She was about the age of my dear daughter when she died, and I cannot get her out of her mind. When you first appeared in the doorway you gave me quite a start. I thought you were she. If I can find any trace of her, I mean to investigate this matter. I have a feeling that that girl needs a friend."

"I am sure she would be very happy to have a friend like you," said the girl, and there was something in his eyes that were raised to his that made the Judge's heart glow with admiration.

"Thank you," said he warmly. "That is most kind of you. But perhaps she has found a better friend by this time. I hope so."

"Or one as kind," she suggested in a low voice.

The conversation then became general, and the girl did not look up for several seconds; but the young man on her right, who had not missed a word of the previous tete-a-tete, could not give attention to the story Mrs. Blackwell was telling, for pondering what he had heard.

The ladies now left the table, and though this was the time that Dunham had counted upon for an acquaintance with the great judge who might hold a future career in his power, he could not but wish that he might follow them to the other room. He felt entire confidence in his new friend's ability to play her part to the end, but he wanted to watch her, to study her and understand her, if perchance he might solve the mystery that was ever growing more intense about her.

As she left the room his eyes followed her. His hostess, in passing behind his chair, had whispered:

"I don't wonder you feel so about her. She is lovely. But please don't begrudge her to us for a few minutes. I promise you that you shall have your innings afterwards."

To be continued.

Noise.

Noise was not invented by the American people, but they have done more to develop it than any one else. If you doubt this go to a dinner party given by an American society woman. The manufacture of noise in most countries is produced by natural causes. In America it is the work of specialists. There are more people making a living out of noise in this country than anywhere else on earth. Scientists are constantly trying to invent new noises. We depend as much upon new, fresh noises as we do upon new novels, new plays and new adulterations. Noise consists of vibrations, arranged in the noisiest way. A loud noise is not to be despised, but the test of all noises is the one that is different from any other we have ever heard. Huge factories are devoted to the production of noise. It is canned, metalized and strung on wires. Nothing succeeds like noise. When we reach the millennium we shall live on noiseless noise. Hasten the day!—Life.

Genial Matthew Arnold.

In his "Memories" Hon. Stephen Coleridge draws this picture of Matthew Arnold:

Of the poets I have known in the flesh he was by far the most interesting and charming. Full of humor and geniality, with a blend of the Olympian manner that was perfectly delightful to all who understood him! Children were never afraid of or shy with him, and he would discourse with them magnificently about their toys, assigning startling qualities to them with a twinkling gravity till the children discovered new wonders about the familiar playthings never before suspected.

He persuaded my son Johnnie, when he was about three years old, that he, Matthew Arnold, was his horse and kept up the joke at succeeding visits and sent him books with inscriptions, "Johnnie, from his affectionate horse."

Tiny German States.

While it is well known that some of the German states are of illiputian size, few persons are aware that it is quite possible to visit seven of them, including two kingdoms, two duchies and three principalities, in an easy walk of four and a half hours.

A good walker, starting from Steinbach, in Bavaria, will arrive in half an hour at Lichtentanne, which is situated in Saxe-Meiningen. Thence the road proceeds in one and one-half hours to Rauschengesees (Reuss, Elder Branch), after which in a few minutes Gleima, in Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, is reached.

Half an hour's walk brings the pedestrian to Altenegesees (Reuss, Younger Branch). An hour farther on lies Drogitz, on Prussian soil, and the last stage is another hour's stroll, finishing up at Saalthal, Saxe-Altenburg.—Exchange.

ADMIRAL NICHOLSON

Under Orders to Safeguard Americans in Chinese Ports.

CHINESE REBELLION BEING HELD UNDER

Government Troops Have Control of Situation.

Washington, July 25.—In opposing the attacks of the revolutionist forces of the southern party, government troops in China are meeting with success, according to state department advices. The government troops still hold the arsenal at Shanghai, attacked several times by rebels during the last two days.

The entire navy has remained loyal. The fact that Yuan Shih Kai is able to pay the money in the naval service regularly is regarded as an important factor in their adhesion to the government. At Canton the merchants are opposing the rebellion.

An uprising is feared at Hankow, where the majority of the people are said to be in sympathy with the southern party. The vice president of the republic, General Li, is at Hankow, however, and he has reported that he can control the situation. Yuan Shih Kai has issued a proclamation denouncing Huang Sirg, Chen Chi Wei and Po Wen Wei, revolutionist leaders. He offers a money reward and a pardon to any of their followers who will kill them.

Chinese troops were defeated by Mongols in an engagement ninety miles north of Kalgan, according to state department advices.

The navy department has instructed Admiral Nicholson, commanding the Asiatic squadron, to use his discretion in landing marines and bluejackets to protect Americans near the scene of the fighting.

REAPPEARANCE OF TURKEY

A New Note of Alarm Raised in the Troubled Balkans.

London, July 25.—Just when the situation in the Balkans seemed to be taking a more favorable turn, Bulgaria having recognized the fact of her defeat and being willing to negotiate for peace, a new situation was caused by the reappearance of Turkey on the scene, and the whole affair has now taken a most serious aspect. A feeling of approaching consternation was caused by a report that the Turks were advancing to Philippopolis, and it is understood that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has asked for the intervention of the powers.

Kurdish cavalry invaded Old Bulgaria and occupied Jamboli, sacking it and other towns and villages. The Bulgarian legation in London has official information that the Turks penetrated Bulgarian territory in the direction of Nizilazagh and occupied the villages of Vakovo, Constantineve, Boujak and Dervent. The first two were burned. The cavalry occupied Karagoha and also the Gavilove valley. Panic prevails among the population.

Avenge Massacre of His People.

Pekin, July 25.—Prince Urdal, at the head of 3,000 Mongols, returned to Tonanfu recently and defeated the Chinese troops under General Wu. The Chinese lost 500 men. Prince Urdal has thus avenged massacres of his people in August and October of last year.

MICHIGAN FACES RIOT SITUATION

State Troops Ordered to the Copper Country.

FIELD GUNS ARE TAKEN ALONG

With the Expectation of Encountering Resistance, the Michigan National Guard Has Gone to Scene of Disturbance Fully Accoutered For War, Reports of Conditions at the Mines Being Ominous.

Lansing, Mich., July 25.—Tonight every available man in the Michigan national guard will bivouac in the copper country, where the striking miners are now raising a disturbance. Brigadier General Abbey says that the mission of the national guard will be to preserve order and not to incite further riots. There will be no useless show of strength, but the men will have orders to protect life and property.

Although the full strength of the state militia is 2,400 men, it is not expected that more than 2,200 will answer the sudden call to arms, as a few are away on vacations. The two Lansing batteries of field artillery took along six of the new field pieces and 100 head of horses. All the officers and men are armed with big revolvers and several thousand rounds of ammunition. Adjutant General Vandercook wired to Sheriff Bayers of Houghton county for a reliable report of conditions, and in a message the sheriff said that to protect life and property troops should be sent at once. He says ten deputy sheriffs are in the hospital and that others have been intimidated by the strikers and are turning in their badges and quitting. Bayers is a great friend of the miners and this report is given much credence.

This is the first time that the militiamen have been called out for strike duty since the labor troubles in the Grand Trunk yards in 1909. Stamp mills as well as mines are now shut down in the copper district because of the miners' strike. The tie-up is complete, with the exception of the smelters, some of which have enough mineral on hand to operate for a week or more.

Disregarding orders of the Western Federation of Miners against violence, many of the 15,000 striking miners of the copper belt created enough disturbances to result in the ordering out of troops. There were no concerted attacks on mine property or persons about the mines, but several persons were injured in sporadic brawls. So menacing did the situation appear to Sheriff Crane that he asked Governor Ferris for militia. The governor was at first inclined to think the sheriff was unduly alarmed. Later reports, however, convinced the governor that armed help was needed and he ordered Adjutant General Vandercook to rush soldiers to the strike zone.

While there were several outbreaks in various parts of the mining country, the chief disturbance that set the troops in motion was an assault on the deputy sheriffs stationed at the mines of the Calumet and Hecla company to protect property. About 300 strikers marched to the shaft and stripped the deputies of stars. The victorious strikers, meeting with little opposition, proceeded to the Hecla branch mine and divested the deputies of their insignia of authority. The strikers then surrounded all the surface plants of the Calumet and Hecla company and forced suspension of auxiliary operations in these plants.

AN OUTBREAK AT SING SING

It May Come Any Time and Militia Are Ready For Emergency.

Ossining, N. Y., July 25.—Two hundred and fifty men in Sing Sing prison spent the day in their cells yesterday because Warden Clancy, the new head of the prison, had received word that there would be a fire in the knitting shop if the convicts employed there were put to work. One hundred first-time men, mostly East Side repeaters and gangsters, who worked in the shops, struck and were locked in their shop all day. Convicts set a fire in the clothing shop, and another fire in the knitting shop wasn't set, as planned, only because Warden Clancy had been tipped off about it.

The people of Ossining got so worked up over the prison disturbances that they asked Sheriff Doyle to call out the militia. "We folks in this town want protection," they said. "There's no telling when this thing will get beyond the keepers. Get ready to help us."

Sheriff Doyle notified the captains of Company F and the Yonkers company of the national guard to hold their men in readiness to answer a riot call to Sing Sing.

A Sad Loss to Letters.

Moscow, July 25.—The holy synod has decided to destroy the three posthumous works of Count Leo Tolstoy on the ground that they are not orthodox comments on the old testament. The czar has approved this decision.

Sir Edward Grey, British foreign secretary, has notified the admiralty to be ready in case the presence of a warship in Mexican waters is found to be advisable.

RALPH PIERCE IS OUT OF GAME

Arcadians Lose Outfielder Because of Injury to His Hands—Grabs Hold of Live Wire.

MAY BE ONLY FOR FEW WEEKS

Management Signs George Orme For Third Base Job—Is Said to be Very Fast.

Just when the Rushville team gets going good along comes old bad luck and grabs off a player. This time it was Ralph Pierce, star outfielder of the Arcadians. Pierce is an electrician by trade and yesterday while at work he came in contact with a live wire and both hands were badly burned.

His hands were badly blistered and Pierce had a narrow escape from death. His injuries will keep him out of the game for at least three games and perhaps longer. His loss will hurt the Rushville team and it comes at a most inopportune time as the Arcadians face three very hard games and his services were needed. The management and fans will be glad when he is again able to play as Pierce is one of the best players on the team.

With the loss of Pierce the fans can get some consolation out of the fact that the management has at last succeeded in signing a real third baseman. After looking over the available material and upon the recommendation of Capt. Cook, George Orme formerly of the Elwood team has been secured. Orme is said to be a find and the management is fortunate in securing him. Orme is very fast on the bases and according to Cook he is the fastest man on the team. He will be in the lineup Sunday against the Indianapolis Specials.

With the third base job taken care of and with Pierce back in the game the team should travel along at a great clip. In the game Sunday Coombs will be placed at first base and Bridgeman will be switched to left field. The outfield will then be held down by Jones, Bridgeman and Yazel. This combination should work well in the game Sunday and the absence of Pierce should not weaken the team very much. The management would have been up against it for fair if Orme had not been secured.

The fans are well aware of the class of ball put up by the Specials and can expect a good game Sunday.

The line up of the Specials has been changed but little since their first appearance here and the team should give the Arcadians a good game.

taking advantage of the opportunity voluntarily to appear before your committee, and I shall consider myself favored if I may be allowed to do so without further delay."

It is up to the committee to take action on Watson's request.

The name of Representative James T. McDermott, a Chicago Democrat, whom Mulhall has accused of betraying organized labor, was used frequently in today's testimony. While the Democratic members of the committee did not pursue this line of inquiry, Senator Nelson, one of the Republican members, kept at Mulhall continuously, to have him point out what items in his various expense accounts consisted of payments to McDermott. No specific items were found, but Mulhall explained that he frequently gave McDermott money. "Whenever I had money I was touched by him," he said.

It was in connection with these expense accounts that an outburst came from Mulhall that almost palsied the committee. When Mulhall could not recollect just what certain payments represented, Senator Nelson inquired who had kept his accounts.

"Lulu K. Mulhall," answered the witness with some confusion.

"Oh, your wife," remarked the Senator, who then proceeded to prepare to ask a question about another item.

Without waiting, Mulhall broke out: "That is in a sense my wife."

Then suddenly becoming greatly excited he exclaimed with a wave of his hand toward the officers of the National Association of Manufacturers who were present:

"But they drove her crazy in 1910, and she is crazy now."

Senator Nelson attempted to stop him by remarking that he did not care anything about that, nor did he desire to know about his personal domestic affairs. But Mulhall would not be quieted, for he burst out again: "I want to tell about it, because they will tell it on me sooner or later. But if you want any scandal you can find more of it in their New York office."

Chairman Overman shouted:

"Wait, wait, wait! Senator Nelson has told you he does not wish to go into that subject," whereupon Mulhall reluctantly subsided.

CONTINUES TO ATTRACT CROWDS

Catholic Carnival Enjoys Liberal Patronage—Free Attraction is One of Features.

TO BE HELD SATURDAY NIGHT

Another large crowd was attracted to the Catholic carnival last night and the attractions enjoyed liberal patronage. The park was thronged with pleasure seekers and the crowd did not leave until all the attractions had been visited and had bought out all the stock at the country store, the ice cream stand, the art booth and the ladies' exchange.

One of the new features of the carnival this year is the free attraction given each night on the large platform. Last night the free attraction was a three round "go" between One Round Grogan of the first ward and "Knockout Dropsi" of the second ward. Grogan was given the decision but another will be put on later in the week. Tonight's attraction will be a free-for-all pie eating contest and a catch-as-catch-can cracker chewing match.

Large crowds attend the show each night put on by the Ross Brothers' Comedy company. Tonight they will present their strongest bill, "King For a Night," a number featured on the Orpheum circuit last winter. As a curtain raiser they will give the double act, "Canned," which is said to be a scream.

Another new feature this year is the ladies exchange in connection with the art booth. This receives much attention each night. It is said to solve the "high cost of living" problem.

The executive committee announces that on account of the postponement of Wednesday night's program the carnival will be held on Saturday night.

Presbyterians and Christians Will Stage Contest in Sunday School League Tomorrow.

BIG FLATROCK CAN NOT PLAY

The Presbyterians and Christians will stage the contest tomorrow afternoon in the Sunday school league. The Big Flatrock team is scheduled to play the Methodists, but the former will be unable to put a team in the field because practically every member of the team is in a threshing company which is now busy and will be for the next week.

This will make four postponed games which the Big Flatrock aggregation will have to play later in the season. Two of the games are with the Presbyterians and one each with the Methodist and Christians. The Presbyterians and Christians were scheduled to play Wednesday and this game was moved up in order to have a game tomorrow.
